~~personnel~~. It continues to function as the Agency's sole asset for counteraudio activities. In addition this Division has been assigned the technical personnel formerly responsible for the installation and repair of alarm systems overseas. ~~In addition~~, Technical Division has absorbed the four staff positions and six contract positions formerly found in PSTB Physical Security Division. This realignment consolidates all the engineering capabilities within PTOS in one division, except for the specialized engineering functions which are an integral part of the Safety Branch, Physical Security Division. This action substantially increases the professional growth potential among these technically skilled personnel.

Technical Division is responsible not only for all Agency counteraudio functions but for the installation, repair and maintenance of all Agency alarm systems, domestic and overseas. Responsibility for providing continuing research, test and evaluation of security equipment is also the responsibility of the Technical Division.

COMPUTER SECURITY DIVISION Group

3. This unit formerly designated, Information Handling Security Branch, Physical Security Division is eliminated from that ~~Division~~ new form and reestablished as the Computer Security Division reporting directly to the DD/PTOS. It is composed of [] staff and [] contract positions. The Top Secret Control function assigned the Office of Security by the Executive Director Comptroller is staffed with a GS-14 Security Officer and a GS-07 Intelligence Clerk and made a part in the Computer Security Division. The specialized skills found in this Division are not compatible with either Physical Security or Technical Division and are more efficiently managed as a separate entity. In addition, this Division is charged with responsibilities of both a line and staff nature and serves the Agency as well as interagency organizations.

GENERAL

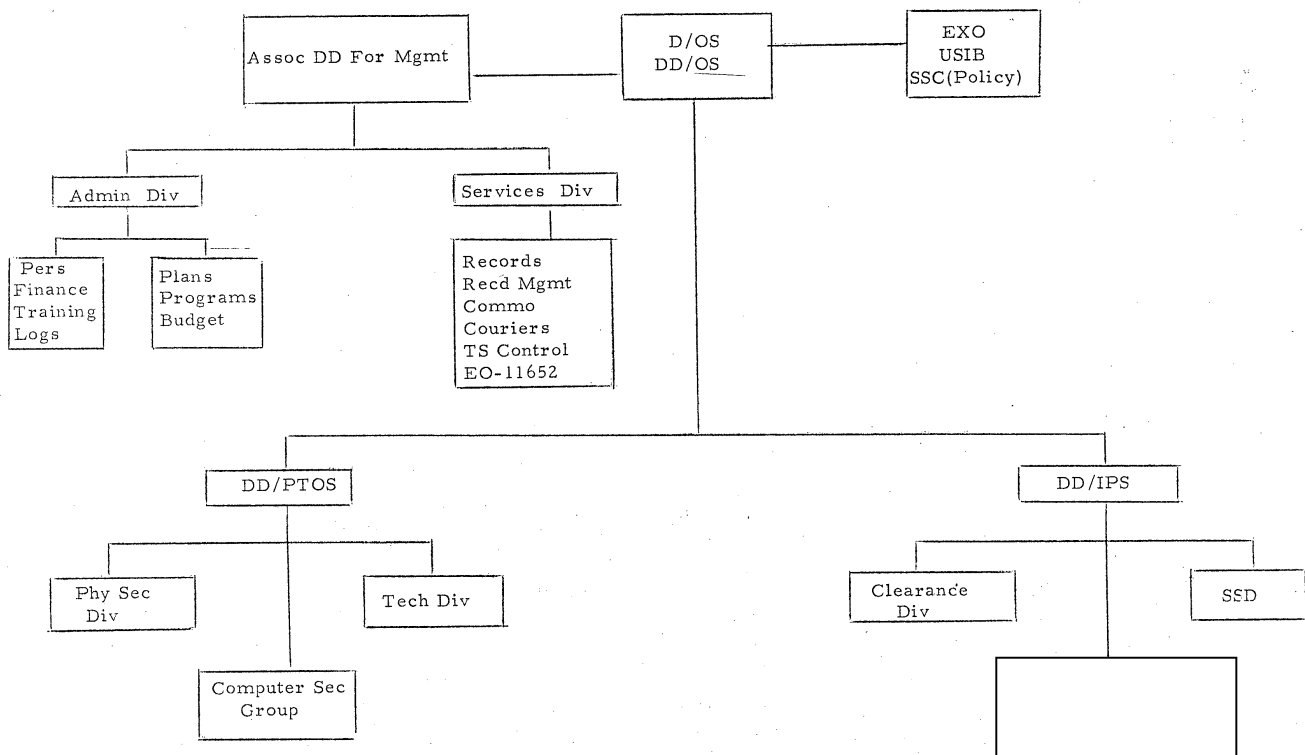

4. This reorganization of PTOS provides a more functional relationship within divisions, more direct lines of authority and greater flexibility within subordinate components. This structure provides the mechanism which will permit the directorate to accomplish its mission with greater economy and efficiency.
